The NYS IAAI is a non-profit organization formed 50 years ago to provide technical training, networking opportunities, and professional development for fire investigation and insurance professionals throughout New York State. Every year, NYS IAAI offers numerous fire and explosion investigation training opportunities, professional networking, and access to critical professional development resources. Our 750+ members include fire investigators, police investigators, engineers, attorneys, insurance representatives, chemists, canine handlers, college students, and various subject matter experts.
